It is believed that this will be satisfactory to W. H. Bancroft of Salt Lake, vice-president and general manager of the Oregon Short Line and representative of the Harriman interests here. Under the terms of the ordinance sussed tonish, the city may grant any transportation company a right to build tracks across the viaduct, but no locomotive or car weighing more than 17,000 pounds is to be allowed on the structure. The ordinance passed the Council by a vote of eight to two, Councilmen Thomas and Browning opposing the measure. Those who argued for the passage of the ordinance declared that unless the city met the railroad companies half way, in all probability the shops roundhouses and other mechanical departments of the various Harriman companies would be moved out of the city limits, and possibly to Salt Lake.

WESTERN DELEGATES BY NO MEANS IN HARMONY

The Idaho delegation, except Heyburn, is for Taft. It is not improbable, according to the talk here, that if Heyburn continues to fight Taft he may find his name left off the list of delegates. Senator Smoot said recently that Diah had not decided what she would do in regard to the presidency. The delegation admits that it favors the president, but there is talk of opposition to Taft on account of his championship of the bill relating to Philippine tariffs, which, it is said, is in imical to the sugar industry. imical to the sugar industry.

PRESIDENT PURSUES

at Pine Knob Is Not Learned.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 27. -For the first time since he spent a fortnight in the canebrakes of northern Louisiana, in October, President Roosevelt shouldered a gun this afternoon and went in quest of the elusive noon and went in quest of the clusive wild turkey. With "Uncle Dick" Me-Daniel, the faithful colored servant at Plain Dealing, as a guide, a start from Pine Knot was made at 2 o'clock, directly after lunch. The President was mounted on one of the best stallions owned by Joseph Wilmer. The scene of the hunt was nearly five miles south-east of Pine Knot on a mountain spur

Just what success the President met with could not be learned, as he had not been seen to pass Glendower up to with could not be learned, as a land not been seen to pass Glendower up to 6 o'clock, at which hour the telephone exchange closed. Assistant Secretary McGrew of the President's office force and Secret Service Guard Sloan, who reported at an uptown hotel, received a message early this afternoon, presumably from the White house. Within less than an hour they had hired a team and were off for Pine Knot, a distance of sixteen miles. Nothing had been seen of them up to dark at Glendower, which is less than a mile from Pine Knot, It was after dark, no doubt, when the couriers reached their destination, and, no matter how urgent the message, there is not much probability of a reply being sent to the White house tonight, as there is no telephone service from the southern end of the county after 9 o'clock at night. Sloan and McGrew are apt to spend the night and McGrew are apt to spend the night at Plain Dealing.

President Walks Some.

In his ride over to Pine Knot from North Garden yesterday afternoon the President astonished the driver by alighting when only half way of the journey had been completed and "footing it" the remaining distance. Accompanying the President on foot was Kermit. That the pedestrians made good time was shown by the fact that the trap containing Mrs. Roosevelt and sister, on the return journey, passed the himself by watching the beggles from the White house kennels chase rabbits in the ledge fields near Pine Knot. Dr. Rixey and Kermit had their guns with them, and bagged several bares. The clouds of the morning have disappeared, and as there has been a slight drop in temperature, the indications are that the President will have another good day tomorrow to spend in the open. Mrs. Roosevelt and her sister, Miss Carew, accompanied by Dr. Rixey and Mr. Wilmer, went for a bracing drive this afternoon on the splendid macadam road leading to Green mountain
